

Partner Spotlight: ITConcepts

ITConcepts is an experienced midPoint integrator operating in Switzerland and Germany. Markus Steiner, the Lead IAM Architect and IAM Senior Consultant, will tell us more about their work in the identity management field.

What was the most exciting midPoint project you worked on?

Developing an IDM solution for a governmental institution that handles all pupils, students, apprentices, and teachers for their whole region. They can manage more than 50,000 identities every school year. "Manage" means assign them to the right class, give them the rights and access they need, and support them during the complete educational lifecycle.

What can an organization that is considering working with you expect from your cooperation?

As an experienced specialist for IAM systems, we accompany organizations throughout the entire project phase – from consulting to planning and development to implementation. We create a customized IAM concept that is precisely tailored to organizations' individual requirements. Through updates and customer-specific extensions, we make their existing IAM system state of the art.

What are some of your exciting plans in the coming months?

Onboarding our first customers to the ITConcepts IAMaaS solution. IAMaaS stands for Identity and Access Management as a Service, and it means that we are providing midPoint as a cloud service to our customers. The data as well as the service itself is entirely hosted in Switzerland.

This enables our customers to improve IT security in their companies by managing employees and their authorizations centrally from one point. The employee lifecycle, role-based access control, audit, employee certifications, and recertifications are no longer just buzzwords. They can actually be lived and applied at a fixed, calculable monthly price at very little risk to customers.

ITConcepts is one of the leading IT service providers for the efficient automation of business processes. Its long-standing expertise lies in the areas of IT service management, IT operations management, identity access management, and big data analytics.
